

Rules for nomination for the AFI PRIZE FOR SIGNIFICANT CONTRIBUTION IN THE FIELD OF INVESTMENT

General information

- The purpose of the Prize is to acknowledge activities and projects implemented in the Czech Republic (e.g. investments in advanced technologies) and activities and projects originating in the Czech Republic and implemented abroad that are beneficial for the Czech Republic (e.g. export of innovations, co-creation of a positive image of Czech industry abroad, development of business relations with strategic partners).
- The Prize can be awarded both in relation to either an individual investment as a whole (e.g. a major investment project within a given sector) or a part thereof (e.g. the introduction of sophisticated production in the food industry). The Prize may be awarded for any form of investment (greenfield, brownfield, joint venture or acquisition).
- The Prize can be awarded to a single legal entity, state institution, contributory organisation, non-profit organisation, university or research facility, and cannot be awarded repeatedly.

Nomination

- The nomination must contain the following formal requisites:
  - Name of the organisation/activity/project.
  - Description of the organisation/person/activity/project and the benefit that it provides in the scope of 1,500-4,500 characters including spaces in the Czech or English language + annexes, if any (in the event that the nomination is shortlisted, more detailed information will be required from the nominator and the nominee).
  - Rationale for the nomination.
